SOMEONE JUST VIBECODED A PROGRAM THAT DOWNLOADS ANY WEBSITE ON THE INTERNET

every $35,000 agency site is now yours to rip clean for $0

fully open source, save it before it's gone

you paste one url and it does the rest:

→ crawls the entire site

→ grabs every file: html, css, Show more

whoever leaked this has bigger balls than sense

two researchers replaced $7,500 of human grading with $77.81 of model calls, and the number that fell out should stop anyone shipping an agent this week: the judge disagrees with itself 13.6% of the time

it also prefers whichever

Eval Engineering: the step that turns a $200 model into a $200,000 system (complete build)

Everyone is renting the same brain now.
The model you can have for a couple of hundred a month is, give or take, the model a company with a thousand engineers is running. That was supposed to level...

a new kind of engineer is showing up. they don't write prompts, they design how the AI works. it's called graph engineering, and the people who get it now are about to make everyone else look slow

Graph Engineering

The layer nobody teaches

Graph Engineering: the layer between prompts and product that nobody teaches (full course)

An AI rewrote a million lines of code in 11 days.

This was a real production runtime. Bun, the JavaScript engine that millions of apps quietly run on, went from 535,000 lines of code in one language...
